Internet Safety Tips for Parents

WHAT IS THE INTERNET?

The internet is a collection of computer networks that allows people to find and use information and communicate with others throughout the World Wide Web. The "Web" is the system that allows you to browse through a variety of linked internet resources, organized by home pages or web sites.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF MY CHILD USING THE INTERNET?

Being online with a computer opens up a world of educational resources for your child. Homework help, connecting with places around the world, and learning to have fun together with online friends can increase reading skills, communications, and improve your child's technical skills.

WHAT ARE THE RISKS OF MY CHILD USING THE INTERNET?

Unsolicited mail, often about inappropriate subjects, products, or schemes, may be sent to your child. Some sites promote inappropriate ideas. Much of the information online is inaccurate, misleading, or untrue. Personal information requested may be used in unauthorized ways.

CAN PARENT CONTROLS HELP?

Parent Control blocking software can help you restrict access to only materials approved as kid-safe, and allow you to block additional materials you feel are inappropriate for your child. Some help enforce time limits. The best protection is to purchase blocking software or use the controls that your ISP provides, and update frequently. No Parent Control program is 100% reliable.

HOW ELSE CAN I KEEP MY CHILD SAFE?

Keep your computer in a family area to better monitor your child's activity. Regularly spend time online together to learn about your child's interests and activities. Make sure your child understands what you consider appropriate. Explain the dangers, and set clear, reasonable rules for your child's online activity.

Share these rules with your child:

- Never tell anyone your personal information unless you ask a parent or guardian first
- Never agree to meet anyone in person you first met online
- Don't say mean things to anyone online
- If others say mean things online, go somewhere else online or sign off; always tell your parents.
- Remember that a person may pretend to be someone different online
- You should not be at a site or in a chat room if you would feel uncomfortable sharing with your parents.
- If you come across such a site or chat room, click the back button and go somewhere else online right away.
- Don't do anything online that you know you shouldn't do in real life
